

Improved Fly Control in 90 Days

But Don't Take Our Word for It

New fly season, new users, but the same results for Altosid® IGR.
Read what these cattlemen had to say about the successful horn-fly control they experienced during a 90-day trial.

85% of participants reported that they were satisfied with the results they experienced from Altosid® IGR.

Here are some success stories...

Chad B.

"After using Altosid IGR, I can tell you we will change nothing about our program for 2023. What we did this year worked very well. Most cows had very few flies on them this summer. We went through four tubs this season and that is much more economical than the injections we've used in the past. It gave us good control for the entire season."

Jacob S.

"At the time of initiation of Altosid IGR, the fly population was already elevated. We used pour-ons and fly sprays to decrease the fly population. Once that was done the fly population never increased."

Marvin M.

"The cattle ate it great — palatability was not an issue."

Robert W.

"The cattle performed stellar during the trial period with Altosid IGR. There were cattle with no flies at all, and the only change was the mineral used."

Johnathan G.

"Loved the texture. We had no problems feeding it."

Randy K.

"Altosid IGR helps with fly control and overall better animal health."

Troy C.

"We had no challenges. Cattle ate mineral at about the suggested rate. Fly control was great!"

Robert W.

"Altosid IGR fit right into our existing program."
